Janet Currie
Princeton University

Janet Currie is the Henry Putnam Professor of Economics and Public Affairs at Princeton University and the Co-Director of Princeton’s Center for Health and Wellbeing. She also co-directs the Program on Families and Children at the National Bureau of Economic Research. She has served as the Vice President of the American Economics Association and is a member of the National Academy of Medicine and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. She is a Fellow of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Society of Labor Economists, and the Econometric Society, and holds honorary degrees from the University of Lyon and the University of Zurich. She is on the Board of Reviewing Editors of Science and has served as the Editor of the Journal of Economic Literature and on the editorial board of the Quarterly Journal of Economics. Her research focuses on health and wellbeing, especially of children. She has written about early intervention programs, programs to expand health insurance and improve health care, public housing, and food and nutrition programs. Her current research focuses on socioeconomic differences in health and access to health care, environmental threats to health, and mental health.

Presents:

"Life, Death, and Mental Health: How Access to Care Helps Children Succeed"

Time: 4:00 – 5:30 pm
Date: Tuesday, February 19, 2019
Location: Student Community Center, Multi-Purpose room

Sponsored By:
The Levine Family Fund
The Department of Economics, UC Davis
The Levine Family Fund Lectures are free and open to the public